Summary of CV

This section describes briefly a summary of your career in science, academic and research; the main scientific and technological achievements and goals in your line of research in the medium -and long- term. It also includes other important aspects or peculiarities.

Fabio Loporcaro's main research line has focused on the interface of Spanish syntax, pragmatics and semantics, both from a synchronic and diachronic perspective. His interests also embrace Romance languages in general. His secondary research line complements the primary one by addressing knowledge transfer. Once specific linguistic features or functions are identified, he examines how these are taught to language learners and considers whether curriculum content or pedagogical materials need adjustments.

He holds a PhD in Languages, Literatures, Cultures and Technologies from the U. Genoa (cum Laude) and a PhD in Didactics of Languages and their Literatures (cum Laude) from the U. Granada obtained through an International Cotutelle Agreement. The PhD from the U. Granada was awarded the International Mention. The Doctoral program of U. Genoa involved close collaboration with the U. Turin (Italy). During his doctoral career, Fabio Loporcaro completed a three month research stay at the U. Lisbon (Portugal) under the supervision of Dr. José María Santos Rovira and another stay of one month at the Aix Center for Romance Studies (CAER) of the U. Aix-Marseille (France) under the supervision of Dr. Stéphane Pagès. During his undergraduate education, Fabio Loporcaro was an exchange student for 5 months at the U. Liverpool (UK). Currently, he has officially been invited by Dr. Johannes Kabatek for a week stay (February 26th – March 7th, 2025) as a visiting professor at the U. Zurich (Switzerland). Since January of 2022, he has been a member of the research group Didactics of Language and Literature (HUM457), led by Dr. Cristina Pérez Valverde. He speaks four languages: Italian (native speaker), Spanish (C2 level, certified DELE), English (C1 level, certified IELTS) and French (B2 level certified DELF).

Fabio Loporcaro has published 4 peer-reviewed articles and 3 book chapters. In all the articles, he is both the first and corresponding author. The journals in which he published are all indexed in JCR (two in Q3 and two in Q4) and in SJR (one in Q1 and three in Q2). As for the book chapters, he is the first and corresponding author for two of them: those published in Tirant Lo Blanch and Dykinson. These publishing houses are ranked in Q1 of National SPI Index (general), respectively occupying the first and third position out of 99. In the other book chapter, published by Peter Lang, he is the second author, but still the corresponding author. This publishing house is the 7 out of 76 (Q1) in the International SPI Index (general). Since the beginning of his research career (2020), he has participated (oral communication) in 14 international conferences across five countries: Spain, Italy, France, Lithuania and Switzerland. Some of these conferences are among the most notable ones in his field: 39th AESLA Conference, 32th ASELE conference, 13th AHLE, and 105th AATSP conference. His participation in this last one was funded through a competitive call by the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese (AATSP): Fabio Loporcaro was among the winners of the Conference Travel Award (Predoctoral). In terms of editorial activities, Fabio Loporcaro was recently invited to review an article for Folia Linguistica, a journal indexed in JCR (Q3) and SJR (Q1).

As for his teaching experience, he has taught four different courses as an Adjunct Professor at two Italian institutions: Spanish Language and Translation 1 (36 hrs.) at the U. Turin; Spanish Language (64 hrs.) and two separate courses of Legal Spanish (48 hrs. + 48hrs.) at the U. Palermo. He also obtained positive results in the student satisfaction survey, with an average score of 9.27 out of 10. As part of his teaching related activity, it is noteworthy to mention Fabio Loporcaro's participation as Team Member in the WELL-CLIL research project led by Dr. Juan Ramón Guijarro Ojeda. This projects aims to studying the wellbeing of language teachers in the context of the challenges posed by bilingualism and plurilingualism in universities as well as primary and secondary schools.
